Oxford University Press,

New York.

Dear Sir:-

I beg to acknowledge receipt this morning of a copy of Gardiner's "History of Greek Coinage" sent to the Editor of the American Journal of Numismatics for review. The American Journal of Numismatics is an annual publication, and a reference in the next volume may be too late for a review to have any value for you. The popular organ of the American Numismatic Association, and with which this Society has connection, the Numismatist, appears monthly and has a much larger circulation. Under the circumstance it would seem to me that a brief review prepared for it by me might have greater informing value. If you will advise me that a copy has not also been sent to them for review, I shall be very glad to draw up a notice which will make some effort to emphasize the very great value of this book.

Yours very truly,

Secretary.

our London House, and we should be glad to have a review of it made as soon as you can conveniently do so. Copy was also sent to the Numismatist.

Gentlemen:

The Publishers' Ad Club, an organization made up of the advertising managers and publicity representatives of some thirty of the leading publishers, has assigned to the writer the task of compiling a list of the class magazines which review books.

It would seem very desirable for all magazines having pages or sections devoted to books to have a record of this fact in the hands of all the more important publishers. The book publishers on the other hand have long felt the need for more definite and detailed information on the subject.

The enclosed questionnaire while rather full will give the publishers the information needed and we will especially appreciate your answering every question.

In printed or multigraphed form this data will be placed in the hands of every member of the club. The immediate result will be to insure your receiving those books in which you are most interested and may produce a considerable increase in the amount of book advertising sent you.

Please return the questionnaire directly to the writer at the above address. Your prompt attention to this matter will be greatly appreciated.

Yours very truly,

Gentlemen:

Your letter of March 30th is at hand and is very annoying. Your previous letter of February 20th, is marked " In reply please quote WR " , and is signed R. It states that the unfilled part of our order had been ordered from London, and was expected shortly. What " shortly " meant is problematical, for your present letter shows that you cannot even locate our correspondence, let alone the missing parts for which you have received payment.

The American branch of another firm, recently complained that Americans ordered books direct. The present instance is a capital example of the reason why we are forced to do so.

This was written by our accounting department who discovered that they had a credit balance for The American Numismatic Society with no charge to offset it. Gentlemen:

I am today in receipt of your bill No. 34735, which I am returning. On December 27, 1927, we placed with you a subscription to the British Museum Quarterly combined with a request for all of the back numbers. You sent us the back numbers you happened to have on hand and promised to send the remainder as soon as they could be procured. On the strength of this promise, we paid your bill; but several months were required for receiving the lacking numbers. Now we have a second bill for Vol. II, Part 2, together with a duplicate of this part, which I am also returning. Furthermore, your bill for Vol. III, which you have just raised for payment, is at the rate of £2.25 less 15%, whereas that for the first two volumes had no reduction.

If you have another example of your way of handling business that is even slighter than the way you have handled our order for this volume, I should like to know of it. I venture to believe that we could have ordered this periodical direct and received it filled completely in one half the time it took your firm to do it.

Dear Sir:

Replying to your letter of September 20th, we will cancel our charge for volume 2, part 2, of the British Museum Quarterly as soon as this is received. We regret that this duplicate part was sent through our inadvertence.

As a society, you are entitled to a special 10% discount. In order to adjust our bill for volumes 1-2, we are crediting you with the difference between $3.20 per volume and $3.20 less 10% per volume.

As we explained in our letter of April 11th, we cannot always control conditions at the source of supply so that all our orders will be filled without delay. Were you importing daily, you would well appreciate our position, for you must remember that we do not import one or two books at a time, but in our busy seasons hundreds of orders have to be procured from abroad. One particular order cannot be singled out to the exclusion of all others and rushed ahead, unless there is some particular need to do so. In such cases, we generally radio the order and have the books mailed on a fast boat. As a general thing, shipments from London are by freight on slow boats.

The list price per part of this Quarterly is 2/-, which figures at 4/- to 1/- at 80%, or $3.20 per volume.

ANNOUNCEMENT

The Oxford University Press has just published what has been described as "a really superb book", PATTERN: A Study of Ornament in Western Europe, by Joan Evans, in two volumes, price, $50.00.

The sub-title of this book is "A Study of Ornament in Western Europe From A.D. 1180-1900." The pictures alone would make it a production of the greatest beauty, interest and importance. In the two volumes there are 435 plates made from photographs taken in every corner of Europe. These pictures are a perfect gallery of delight and will make the book well worth possessing even if one did not read a word of the text. There are photographs of architectural detail, of furniture, of mosaics, of tapestry, of iron-work, of jewelry, of, in fact, any article in the manufacture of which self-conscious ornament has played its part.

Of the text it is only necessary to say that it represents the work of many years and is of first rate interest. Miss Joan Evans, whose "Life in Mediaeval France" is already known and appreciated by those who take the spirit of history as its most important part, has produced a wholly readable book.

It is easier to enumerate those to whom this book will not appeal than to make a list of those who might find it interesting. Collectors, artists, historians will revel in it, and practitioners in all the crafts will find, in the pictures alone, information and inspiration which it would be impossible to exaggerate.

If you cannot get this book at your bookseller, we shall be glad to fill your order direct or to send you Free of Charge a copy of the beautiful 8-page prospectus including four of the 435 magnificent plates.

Very truly yours,

Gentlemen:

We have just published a book which we feel would be of particular interest to you called GREEK COINAGE by Dr. J. G. Milne (price, $2.25).

The purpose of this book is to give a general sketch of Greek coinage and currency, showing how they originated and developed. The history of coins is closely bound up with many questions, political and economical, and this book besides explaining the coins themselves, explains and illustrates many questions which present themselves to the economist and to the student of ancient Greek life.
This extremely useful and valuable work is illustrated with twelve halftones, chiefly of specimens to be found in the British and Ashmolean Museums.

We should like very much to know whether you have a suitable mailing list for this book which we may rent for circularizing.

Gentlemen:

Responding to your letter of May 27th; our rules prohibit using a list of our members for the purposes you indicate, but, for your information, I would say that you can obtain the membership list and directory of the American Numismatic Association, which is an organization larger in numbers than our Society, at a cost of $2.00 from Mr. Frank G. Duffield, 4215 Fernhill Avenue, Baltimore, Md. Although our members are listed in this publication, their addresses are not given. A considerable percentage, however, is included in the membership of the Association and I believe that of the two you will be better pleased to have the Association membership list.

I have seen Mr. Milne's book and consider it one of the best introductions to the subject in English.

The purpose of this book is to give a general sketch of Greek coinage and currency, showing how they originated and developed. It also suggests how their history can help to explain and illustrate many questions, both political and economical, which present themselves to the student of ancient Greek life. It is illustrated with 12 half-tones, chiefly of specimens to be found in the British and Ashmolean Museums.

Dear Sir or Madam:

The great

SURVEY OF PERSIAN ART

which we expect to publish is approaching completion and a prospectus is available to those wishing to consider subscribing.

The SURVEY, of which the number of copies available is strictly limited, will be one of the most magnificent books ever produced.

Five Volumes

containing approximately 700 pages of letterpress, upwards of 200 plates in colour, 1,200 plates in monochrome, and many text illustrations, and in the fifth volume a Bibliography. The price of the ordinary edition is $150.00 and of the de luxe edition $210.00.

If you are interested and have not already received a prospectus we shall be glad to send you a copy of the prospectus, while the supply lasts, on receipt of your request. This places you under no obligation, of course.

Very truly yours,
